Course Description

This course equips students with basic knowledge essential in order to understand environmental problems at the regional level, as well as the attractive features of the regional community and how to enhance them. Students will cultivate their “way of seeing things” and acquire a capacity to both discover and solve problems in theory and practice.

The course deals with the impact of humans on regional environments, with an awareness of the place of humans in the ecological system. Students will also consider what environmental problems exist in the regional community, and how humans can coexist with the natural environment.
