Academic Information

Course listings for exchange students	Students have access to a wide range of disciplines. For an active listing of courses, please see our online schedule of coursework: https://sis.rutgers.edu/soc/ Students will be allowed to register based on completion of the necessary prerequisites. Prior to registration, some courses are subject to departmental evaluation.
Course Selection and Scheduling	Key points to consider – Students must be able to demonstrate completion of all necessary pre-requisites to be enrolled in a course. This most often is evaluated based on successful completion on an academic transcript. In some cases, syllabi of the prerequisite course will be needed to better understand a student’s background and preparation. Areas this is particularly important, but not limited to – Business, Mathematics, Statistics, Engineering, Computer Science, and all Lab Sciences. Students should anticipate enrolling in a variety of courses during their time of study at Rutgers. A typical course load would be 2 to 3 courses in a student’s major or intended area of study, with 2 to 3 courses that support a student’s general studies or serve as degree requirements. Students should NOT plan to take 4+ courses in their major, primary field of study, or single discipline. No course listed in the Schedule of Classes is guaranteed to be offered each semester, nor do we guarantee space/availability at the time of exchange student enrolment.
Courses/departments not open to exchange students	Studio Art, Drama, Dance, Pharmacy, and Graduate courses are restricted. Business courses, Computer Science, Communications, Information Technology, some Fine Arts, some Physical Sciences are highly limited to exchange students. To ensure best chances of enrolment, students must have syllabi prepared with necessary prerequisites at the time they apply to study at Rutgers. Exchange students are enrolled at the end of the registration period, thus courses offered may not be open or available for registration once they are eligible. Please note that Independent Study at Rutgers is limited to second semester, academic year exchange students.
Full-time credit / workload – for 1 semester and for full-year	12 credits (typically 4 classes) is considered full-time for each semester. Exchange Students most often take between 12 and 15 credits.

Health Insurance	All incoming exchange students are required to carry adequate health insurance. Rutgers University offers health insurance and will automatically bill you for this insurance, unless you show proof of other coverage that is equal to Rutgers insurance coverage. A guide to minimum insurance requirements at Rutgers can be found here, but students will not be considered exempt until their policy has been reviewed by Rutgers.
